Senior Artist Honored by TVAA

4/4/2019

A drawing, titled Boston, by Peri Huling '19 was accepted into the Texas Visual Art Association (TVAA) 2019 Annual High School Art Competition. The exhibition was on display from March 1 to 24 at the SP/N Gallery on the campus of the University of Texas at Dallas in Richardson.

According to Upper School Art and Art History Teacher Lauren Cunningham, gaining entry into the show was incredibly difficult. TVAA reported that out of 1,008 entries submitted by 36 Dallas-Fort Worth schools, only 170 artworks (16.8 percent) were accepted into the show. "My students have been submitting work to this competition for the last six years," Cunningham said. "I am always blown away by the level of talent and quality of art that is displayed. I am very excited that Peri's art was included in this show."

The show was juried by four Dallas art professionals: Brian K. Jones, Multiple Media Artist and part of the collaborative duo of Chuck & George; Greg Metz, Artist, Educator and Director of SP/N Gallery; Rachel Rogerson, Director of the McKinney Avenue Contemporary; and John Spriggins, Educator and General Manager of the South Dallas Cultural Center. They wrote in their Jurors' Statement: "We believe this selection represents the best and the brightest works not only in Texas but on par nationally."
